

THE SCHLEHLEINS

Missionaries to the Tsongas of South Africa

A MEDIA GUY'S DREAM JOB

A Once in a Lifetime Chance to Influence Missions for Christ

If I was a young man with some IT skills and found myself screeching around the hairpin turn known as 2020, I'd jump at this opportunity.

From April to November in 2021 we want to employ a guy with some digital savvy to get several of our social media projects off the ground.

If you're handy with a camera and know how to navigate websites and other online platforms, come talk with us. You'll not get rich (on earth) but we'll help you financially and give you a comfortable place to stay. Then we can work together making other people uncomfortable.

You might be a computer science major. Or, perhaps you're working landscape full-time but have found a knack for video and computer stuff on the side. Either one works for us.

Our goal: using media to help Africa and the world think more carefully about missions, theology, and books. If you're not the person we're looking for, I'm sure you know the person we're looking for.

You're the kind of guy (or couple) we'd like to hire IF...

1. You have the #1 character trait we prize: a teachable spirit.
2. You break into little boy victory dances every time you upload a Youtube video.
3. You love missions but can't figure out how to engage it.

4. You're willing to spend 8 months doing IT work, even if that is not your life's goal. The time Jesus spent as a carpenter wasn't wasted.
5. You don't break into a cold sweat when interacting with website design, Facebook, and podcasts.
6. You're creative and have an eye for excellence.
7. You'd be unintimidated to video a Prosperity Gospel jamboree, or a Tsonga funeral or a Muslim debate or a male circumcision school or an African choir.
8. You're the kind that keeps mounting the bull till you hit 8 seconds.
9. Your goal is to produce media that reflects God's nature doctrinally, ethically, and aesthetically.
10. You have godly ambition. You expect great things from God. You attempt great things for God.
11. You don't want to waste your life in a suburban lockdown.
12. You have Africa on your bucket list.
13. You've entered the 2nd quarter of your life and want it to count more than the first.

How to pray

We'd like to begin in April 2021. Spread the word. Tell your friends. Announce at college and from the pulpit at church. Ask God to bring us just the right guy.

Cordially in Christ,

Paul & Lindy,

Audrey, Nate, Law, Owen, Jujū, Clara, and Luke